

India.

India, which is located in South Asia, is the seventh largest country in the world. It has a population of more than one billion people making it the second largest populated country in the world, after China. The capital city of India is New Delhi, and the currency used is Rupee. If you look carefully at the map, you will see that India has a number of bordering countries, including: Pakistan, China, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh and Burma.

Life in India

Some people in India are very rich but others are very poor. Many families live in villages and it is very different for them compared to the people who live in the towns and cities. Villages in India are very calm and peaceful compared to the extremely busy and noisy cities. In the villages, lots of people work in the fields as farming is a very important job in India. Even the children help out! In the cities, the people who are wealthy live in huge houses and have servants and sometimes even a driver for their car. On the other hand, people who are very poor live in tiny one or two roomed houses.